

REPORT

ECPD ACTIVITIES

2009-2023

Belgrade, December 2023

Foreword

The accomplishments of the European Center for Peace and Development (ECPD) University for Peace established by the United Nations during four decades of its activities, as well as its program orientation for the coming period reflect its intellectual mission as set out in the founding acts of the ECPD. Its mission has remained unchanged: to contribute to peace and development primarily in Europe as the main area of the ECPD's activities, and to international cooperation in the transfer of knowledge, by organizing international postgraduate studies (at the specialist, master's and doctoral levels), postgraduate professional training and specialization (postgraduate schools, specialist seminars, instructive and other courses) and research in the relevant scientific fields. The ECPD's guiding principle and the basic premise upon which the ECPD has based its program orientation and strategy, is that development under conditions of peace is only possible when conceived as human development.

It is undoubtedly true that a widening development gap, both at international and intra-national level, is causing internal and international tension and conflict, thus threatening peace in the world. But it is also true that the development of countries cannot be measured solely by the economic indicators – if we want a stable world peace, we must strive towards development by means of constant advance in the quality of human life. Education and, more generally, the dissemination of knowledge are the prerequisites for such qualitative improvement. In our view, the recent past, characterized by growing volatility, uncertainty and unpredictability, is clear proof that the ECPD has chosen an appropriate strategy for its long-term program orientation.

The ECPD applies an interdisciplinary approach by implementing the following seven, closely inter-related programs – development of human resources, development of natural resources, social and economic development, scientific and technological development, sustainable development, cultural development and management, international cooperation and development.

The program of the ECPD's activities is based on a synergetic and multidisciplinary approach. Its studies are directed towards finding timely and effective solutions for acute and chronic problems of development and the quality of life in the specific regions of Europe, particularly in its south-eastern region, but also elsewhere in the world.

The ECPD devotes special attention to bringing together the intellectual potentials of the West and the East, as well as to strengthening relations and cooperation between the North and the South. In this respect, the ECPD organizes and conducts the following activities: postgraduate specialist, master's and doctoral studies, research projects and studies relevant for peace and development, scientific meetings, symposia, conferences, courses and seminars at which, among other things, the results of research are presented, publishing periodic magazines, books and proceedings of scientific meetings, studies and other scientific works. The ECPD programs are inspired by the highest standards of international achievements, academic knowledge and experience. Through its programs, the ECPD has provided the professional groundwork for the establishment of relations necessary for sustainable development, for the purpose of narrowing and finally closing the development gap and for promoting better understanding and tolerance among states and peoples, as an international educational, research and non-profit organization, in the best interest of peace, development and democracy. The ECPD enjoys full academic freedom necessary for the attainment of its stated aims, especially with regard to the choice of subjects and methods of research for the purpose of peace, the dissemination of knowledge and development. We take special pride in the fact that the ECPD achieved outstanding results in the period under review – the ECPD carried out numerous projects, including the programs of postgraduate education and research projects and studies, international scientific meetings, specialized courses, summer schools and seminars and published books, proceedings, journals and other publications. Clearly, the results of the ECPD's operations, both judged by the number of implemented projects and by their content and quality, could not have been achieved without support of numerous academic institutions, governmental and non-governmental, national and international organizations and distinguished scholars and public figures from all over the world through long-established cooperation and strategic partnerships. These achievements, despite extremely difficult and challenging circumstances throughout its history, as well as the fact that the ECPD has a self-financing status, serve as a strong guarantee for future successful operations.

In the coming period, drawing on its experience and new challenges, the ECPD will continue to attach special attention to advancing its cooperation with national and international organizations, academic and other research institutions and expanding its academic network and finding the best ways to respond to new and emerging challenges and risks, with a purpose of contributing to the promotion of peace, development and international cooperation across Europe, especially in its neighborhood- South-East and Central Europe.

Finally, it should be emphasized that, in 2023, the ECPD celebrated the Jubilee of 40 years of ECPD activities, which was marked by the XVI ECPD International Conference "The Future is to Be Invented" and the XI ECPD Global Youth Forum "Youth Power for the Common Future", held on October 28th and 29th in Belgrade. Both the International Conference and the Global Youth Forum were a complete success and confirmed the continuity, role, importance and prestige of ECPD University for Peace United Nations, bringing together the most prominent scientists, politicians and diplomats and a large number of young future leaders from different parts of the world, from China to Mexico.

Belgrade, December 30th, 2023.

ECPD Executive Director
Prof. Dr. Negoslav Ostojčić

General Remarks

In accordance with its mandatory tasks and objectives referred to in Article 1, Item a) of the Agreement concluded between the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia and the University for Peace established by the United Nations on October 22, 1984, the European Center for Peace and Development (ECPD) performed the following activities in the period under review:

- (i) Organization of postgraduate studies at Specialist, Master's and Doctoral levels;
- (ii) Development and elaboration of research projects and studies;
- (iii) Organization of international conferences and meetings;
- (iv) Publishing activity.

These and many other ECPD's activities have been designed to promote peace, development and international cooperation. Although the area covered by its activities is the so-called "Helsinki Europe", the ECPD is primarily focused on Central and South-East Europe.

In its synergetic and interdisciplinary approach, the ECPD has chosen to perform the activities falling within the following seven closely inter-related groups of programs:

- (i) Development of Human Resources;
- (ii) Development of Natural Resources;
- (iii) Social and Economic Development;
- (iv) Scientific and Technological Development;
- (v) Sustainable Development;
- (vi) Cultural Development;
- (vii) Management, International Cooperation and Development.

Through combining the intellectual potentials on the global scene, the ECPD is contributing to better understanding, cooperation and conflict resolution. For many years, the ECPD has been making major efforts towards national/inter-ethnic reconciliation, religious tolerance and human security in and/or among the post-conflict Balkan countries.

In conducting its postgraduate studies, the ECPD applies the basic principles of the Bologna Declaration related to Master's and Doctoral programs in those countries where the Bologna Declaration is binding.

- (i) In the period under review, 562 postgraduate students enrolled and attended postgraduate studies, of whom 191 students defended their Master's theses, while the remaining students are still in the process of taking examinations and preparing Master's theses;

(ii) Furthermore, 209 candidates were admitted to Doctoral studies and attended in small groups various programs, such as: Strategic Management, Financial Management, Marketing Management, Health Management and Biomedicine, Urban and Environmental Management, Public Sector Management, International Finance and Banking, Sustainable Development, EU Law and International Business Law and Economic Diplomacy. In the meantime, 87 doctoral candidates defended their PhD dissertations, while other candidates are in the process of taking examinations and preparing their dissertations.

The ECPD makes special efforts to intensify and expand its activities in the field of postgraduate studies, especially at Master's and Specialist levels. To this end, the ECPD established regional units in the countries of South East and Central Europe. The ECPD plans to continue in the forthcoming period to implement its postgraduate programs in different fields in its program units and has recently introduced the following programs:

- Strategic Risk and Crisis Management;
- Contemporary Intelligence Studies;
- Violent Extremism and Radicalization;
- Japanese Studies;
- Euro-Asian Studies.

Furthermore, the ECPD is currently working on launching new programs (independently or in cooperation with other educational institutions), such as:

- Turkic Studies;
- Public Health;
- Health Analytics;
- Medical Education;
- Global Mental Health;
- Epidemiology;
- Lifestyle Management.

It is worth mentioning that the ECPD established, with the support of international institutions (UNMIK and EULEX), as well as with Ankara International University (Turkey) and VAMK University (Finland), the first international multi-ethnic, multicultural and multi-lingual postgraduate campus in Pristina.

II. ECPD Research Activities

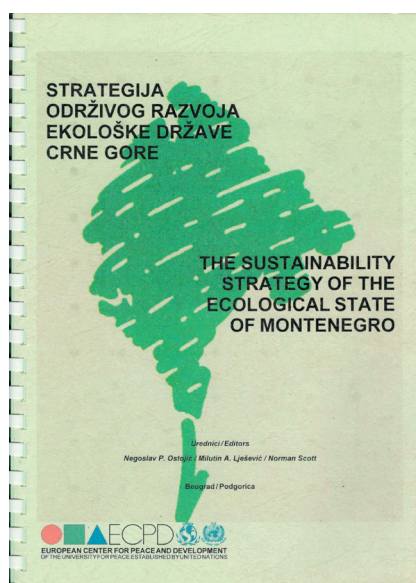

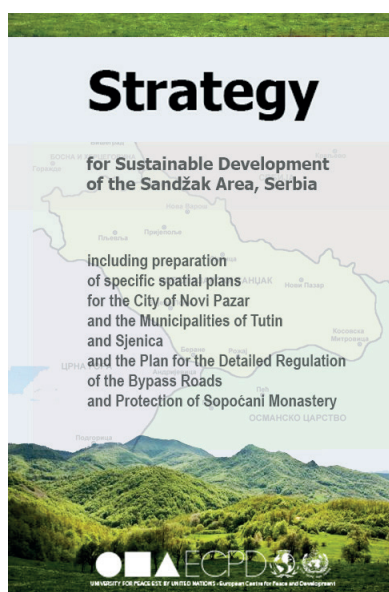

The ECPD's second major task is the elaboration of research projects and studies related to peace and development in the Balkans and the broader European region. This task is carried out in various fields of science and human, environmental, economic and technological development. In the period under review, the ECPD has been engaged in the elaboration, finalization or implementation of the following projects:

- (i) Strategic Directions of Development of Montenegro as an Ecological State (implementation of the Project previously elaborated by the ECPD for the needs of the Government of Montenegro);
- (ii) Elaboration of Sectoral Analyses as Support for Inclusion of the Republic of Montenegro in Euro-Atlantic Integration;
- (iii) Strategy for Sustainable Development of the Sandžak Area (Serbia), including preparation of specific spatial plans for the city of Novi Pazar and the municipalities of Tutin and Sjenica and "The Plan for the Detailed Regulation of the Bypass Roads and Protection of Sopoćani Monastery (12th century)";
- (iv) Implementation of the Strategy for Tourism Development of the Takovo- Rudnik Area (Serbia);
- (v) Preparation of the Strategy for the Development of the Lake Dojran Region (South-West Macedonia);
- (vi) "Great East", a strategic project implemented under the EU RTD Framework Program;
- (vii) BIS-RTD, Building and Improving Support for RTD Policy and Public Spending;
- (viii) R4R, Regions for Research;
- (ix) "Balkans in the 21st Century", Educational and Research Project;
- (x) Paths for Building Peace and Stability in the Balkans;
- (xi) Pre-feasibility Study for Construction of Eco Green Village Based on Modular, Intelligent, Low Cost, and Nearly Zero CO₂ Emission Homes in Belgrade. (Regiostar finalist 2015), SEE Transnational Cooperation Program, funded by the EU;
- (xii) Current Trends in the West-East Relations and their Impact on the Balkan Region;
- (xiii) Demographic Movements in the SEE and their Impacts on the Internal and Regional Peace and Stability;
- (xiv) Research into Sensitive Areas in the Balkans and Prevention of their Escalation into Open Conflicts;

- (xv) The Ways Leading to the Improvement of Peace, Development and Stability in the Balkans;
- (xvi) Natural Disaster Management and Damage Limitation;
- (xvii) Revitalization of the Skadar Lake (Montenegro / Albania)
- (xviii) Final Evaluation of the Regional Development Strategy 2009-2019 and of the Programs in the Planning Regions (North Macedonia).

Within its research activities, the ECPD launched several scientific and research projects in strategic partnership with a group of universities from different countries. In the following period, the ECPD is planning to continue to participate in the EU programs. In the previous period, the ECPD had applied to several calls for partnership with other universities, institutes and organizations around Europe. The project proposals that were submitted in the period under review are:

- BELIEVING IN EUROPE, Religious Diversity in Europe: past, present and future, Program: H2020, call CULT-COOP-O5-2017, Lead partner was Facultat de Comunicació Blanquerna, Barcelona, Spain;
- Implementation of Business-related Human Rights in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo, North Macedonia, Moldova and Serbia with Emphasis on Migrant Workers, Program: European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights (EIDHR): 2016 Global, Europe Aid/152550/DH/ACT/Multi, Lead partner is ISCOMET - Institute for Ethnic and Regional Studies, Maribor, Slovenia;

- Project CREA-CROSS-2022-JOURPART (Lead Applicant: Blanquerna School of Communication and International Relations, Ramon Llull University Spain).

In 2021/2022, the ECPD continued with providing systemic support to the regions and local self-governments in the implementation of conclusions and recommendations which were reached in the previous studies. Likewise, in all eight regions in North Macedonia, in the last quarter of 2021 and the first quarter of 2022, project dispositions were prepared for the preparation of spatial plans on a similar principle as previously was done for the Region of Sandžak, Istria, Montenegro and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

In this period, the ECPD with its expert teams is particularly engaged in the preparation of a comprehensive research project "Western Balkans Resilience to Support Further European Integration – Opportunities for a Geopolitical Win-Win Scenario". The key challenges proposed to be addressed by the project are:

- Objective evaluation and presentation of the advantages and benefits of European integration of the Western Balkans – based on professional research – to politicians, key stakeholders, and the general public, on both sides (the EU and the region). For this purpose, two scenarios for the development of the region during 2022–2030 – with European integration, and without it – with implications for both sides, are to be prepared by highly qualified teams (a general study and country monograph for each country).
- Creating a multi-sectoral Network to better connect academics, business people, politicians, and opinion leaders in the region, encouraging more collaboration at the regional level – focused on creating the conditions for European integration.
- Training opinion leaders and new generation of students and junior researchers, as well as citizens in the region on how to better prepare for the future, based on European values.

- Develop and promote postgraduate study programs on European Integration, Peace and Human Security (MSc and PhD) to prepare more young experts in the region to fully understand the benefits and advantages of European Integration and to contribute actively to the process.

Furthermore, the ECPD is currently working on the preparation of the following projects:

- (i) Strategy of Sustainable Development of the Šibenik – Knin Region, Croatia;
- (ii) Civic Society – Local Communities – Sustainable Development;
- (iii) Integral Sustainable Development of South East European Countries;

IN MEMORIAM

H.E. Mr. Boutros Boutros-Ghali
President of ECPD Honorary Council,
Former Secretary-General of the United Nations (UN) 1992–1996

The ECPD and its constituency are deeply saddened by the passing of Boutros Boutros-Ghali, President of the ECPD Honorary Council. The ECPD was greatly honoured and grateful when BBG, as Boutros-Ghali was affectionately referred to, agreed, in spite of his advanced age, to assume the function of the President of its Honorary Council. While his frail health prevented him from travelling to attend annual ECPD conferences, BBG took active interest in and encouraged the ECPD in its work on reconciliation, tolerance and cooperation among the republics and peoples of the Western Balkans. He submitted his statements to ECPD conferences, which were read to the participants and made available to the media. And he was regularly consulted on issues within the mandate of the ECPD.

It is not surprising that Boutros Boutros-Ghali favourably responded to the invitation to be associated with the ECPD. His deep interest in and lifetime work for peace, development and the democratization of international affairs coincided with the mandate of the ECPD, which was established under the aegis of the University for Peace, founded by the United Nations while SFR Yugoslavia was still in existence. Boutros-Ghali's links with and affection for SFR Yugoslavia go back to the heyday of Non-Alignment and his work as university Professor and Egypt's Minister of state for foreign affairs and acting Foreign Minister.

Boutros-Ghali assumed the function of the UN Secretary-General during a critical and turbulent period in world politics. His initiatives led to the elaboration of landmark UN agendas for peace, development and democratization. He was directly engaged in the complex Yugoslav crisis that resulted in the dismemberment of this country, and showed the weaknesses and limitations of the United Nations, including those under which its Secretary-General has to operate, as masterfully depicted by Boutros Boutros-Ghali in his landmark book Unvanquished.

The ECPD, its Director and staff, associates, and constituency say farewell and thank you to this remarkable man. Boutros Boutros-Ghali was a very special and unique person, a historic figure of the 20th century, and the ECPD was highly privileged to have him associated with its name and work.

IN MEMORIAM

Academician Prof. Dr. Branislav Šoškić
Montenegrin Academy of Sciences and Arts;
European Academy of Sciences and Arts

The ECPD and its constituency are deeply saddened by the passing of Academician Prof. Dr. Branislav Šoškić, one of the main pillars of this international educational and research organization, a prominent Professor since its first days, as Dean, Rector and President of the Scientific and Education Board of the ECPD University for Peace established by the UN. In his extremely rich career, Academician Šoškić held different high-ranking positions, including, inter alia, that of the President of the Republic of Montenegro, President of the Montenegrin Academy of Sciences and Arts, President of the Yugoslav Economic Academy, a member of the European Academy of Sciences and Arts and many other prestigious national and international functions.

Academician Šoškić left an impressive record as a most distinguished Professor and well-known theoretician in the Yugoslav Economics, marked by extraordinary work, dignity and integrity. We will remember him forever as our sincere friend who possessed the best human virtues.

Academician Šoškić graduated from the Faculty of Economics in Belgrade (1951), and received his Ph.D. (1954). He pursued his post-doctoral studies at the Universities in the United Kingdom (St Andrews and Cambridge) (1955-1957) and in the United States (Harvard and California Universities) (1962-1963). On a number of occasions, he was invited to lecture at universities abroad, mostly in the United States. He was the guest of foreign Academies of Sciences and universities where he lectured and presented a large number of scientific papers and statements at symposia.

He published over 400 scientific and professional works, books, monographs, studies and handbooks, collected works, scientific papers and statements (presented at Yugoslav and international symposia), articles and other texts in Serbian and foreign languages (English, French, Russian, Spanish, German, Italian, Czech, Polish, Bulgarian, Albanian). Academician Branislav Šoškić had previously been a Professor and Dean of the Faculty of Economics, University of Belgrade, as well as a distinguished Fulbright Visiting Professor at several American universities.

IN MEMORIAM

H.E. Prof. Dr. Erhard Busek
Former Vice-Chancellor of the Republic of Austria

The ECPD and its constituency are deeply saddened by the passing of our long-standing distinguished member of the ECPD Council and close friend and prominent ECPD Professor, H.E. Erhard Busek, Former Vice-Chancellor of the Republic of Austria.

Both at the level of the institution and each of us personally, it has been an honour and a privilege to enjoy the opportunity of working with Professor Busek and following his wise guidance in a multitude of situations. His impressively rich career which included the highest and most responsible positions throughout his life in helping build and fortify the European Union was also often connected with the Balkans. He will be remembered, among all other accomplishments, for his valuable contribution to this part of Europe, as a prominent champion always striving for peace, tolerance, international cooperation, solving disputes by diplomatic negotiations and a brighter future for all peoples.

On behalf of the European Centre for Peace and Development of the University for Peace est. by the UN which Professor Erhard Busek actively supported for many years, until his last days, we express deep and heartfelt condolences to his family and closest business associates. Prof. Busek has been a prominent member of the ECPD Council, Rector of the Salzburg University of Applied Sciences, President of the Vienna Economic Forum, Jean Monet Chairman, President of ICEUR, the International Center for Advanced and Comparative EU-Russia Research in Vienna, Chairman of the Vienna Peoples Party, Minister for Education, Minister for Science and Research, Chairman of the Institute for Danube Region and Central Europe, Coordinator of the Southeast European Cooperative Initiative SECI, Special Coordinator of the Stability Pact for South Eastern Europe, as well as the heart of many more key institutions that have been active in shaping the world.

IN MEMORIAM

Academician Prof. Dr. Ljubiša Rakić
Vice-President, ECPD Council

The ECPD and its constituency are deeply saddened by the passing of Academician Prof. Dr. Ljubiša Rakić, a member of the Serbian Academy of Sciences and Arts and one of the most distinguished Serbian scientists in the field of medicine. Since 1971, he was Professor of neurobiology at the Centre for Multidisciplinary Postgraduate Studies in the field of Neurobiology at the University of Belgrade. From 1964 to 1979, he was Director of the Biochemical Institute of FM-Belgrade. In the period from 1980 to 1984, he was Dean of FM-Belgrade. He retired in 1996, at the age of 65.

Professor Lj. Rakić studied scientifically and expanded his expertise at the Institute of Normal Physiology of Academician Pyotr Kuzmich Anokhin in Moscow (1956) and in the laboratory of Professors Horace Winchell Magoun and John Douglas French at the Brain Research Institute of the University of California, Los Angeles (1961-62), as well as at several other laboratories in Yugoslavia and abroad. In the early 1960s, he founded the Laboratory of Neurophysiology and Neurochemistry (now the Department of Neurobiology) at the Institute of Biological Research „Sinisa Stankovic“ of the University of Belgrade and the International Laboratory for Brain Research in Kotor under the auspices of UNESCO and the National Institute of Health of the American Government. He was Scientific Director of both research laboratories and collaborated for over five decades with dozens of scientists from many countries, especially from the USA and the Soviet Union.

He was a corresponding member of the Serbian Academy of Sciences and Arts (SASA) since 1974, and a full member since 1983. From 2008 to 2015, he was elected Vice-President of SASA, responsible for natural sciences. He has also been a member of the nominating group of the Nobel Committee for Science for two terms. Prof. Lj. Rakić was a member of numerous academies and scientific societies from region and world. Professor Lj. Rakić had an extensive membership in international professional associations. Prof. Lj. Rakić was a participant in the Yugoslav Liberation Movement, a recipient of several state awards in the SFRY and the highest scientific awards in Serbia (Serbian Prize of the Seventh of July in 1968 and AVNOJ Award in 1977), as well as the Order of Labour Day Third Degree, the Order of Labour Day with Golden Wreath, the Order of 'Fraternity and Unity', the Peace Contribution Medal (1994), etc.
